Inco del Asks Fine To Act On River Project

Pocoyo Manor—The annual conference of the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin—Inco del—unanimously adopted a resolution calling on Gov. John S. Fine and his Albert M. Green field committee for study of Inco del's river development project to act with all possible speed to review the project and render a prompt decision on behalf of Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

New York State members of Inco del and other officials of that State said New York City will go before the U. S. Supreme Court soon asking permission to increase their tap on Delaware River by some 200 million gallons a day unless there is some prompt action on Inco del's plan.

"This is not a threat," they advised the conference, "but neither are we engaged in a game of chess."

Warren N. Gaffney, commissioner of Department of Banking and Insurance of New Jersey and a member of Inco del, offered the resolution verbally after Inco del members of both states had protested Pennsylvania's sudden decision not to act on a proposed four-state pact supporting inter-state action on a project to construct a series of impounding dams on the river above Bushkill.

Gaffney's move came after W. James MacIntosh, general counsel for Inco del, advised the conference that he "regretted to say it would be 1953 before any action on the Inco del project could be taken by Pennsylvania."

The New Jersey member said any such plan would be "out of the question."

"Our work will be down the drain. Let's get on with this. Pennsylvania is as far away as she ever was," he charged.

Preceding all this action, Nathaniel L. Goldstein, attorney general for the State of New York, said his state was prepared to act on the Inco del river basin development project in January, 1952.

However, he emphasized that before New York takes formal final action, he wants to know if a four-state compact on the development project would be achieved.

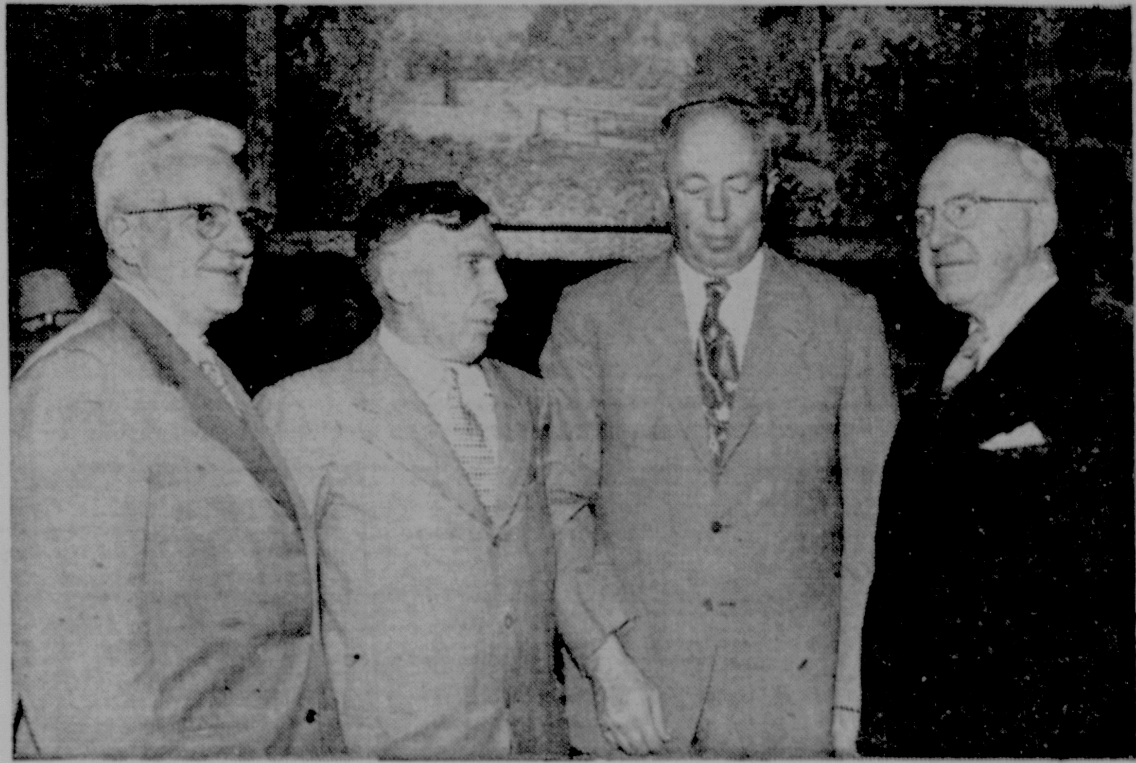

Referring to Pennsylvania's decision to refrain from legislative action this year to allow a special committee to study Inco del's project report, Mr. Goldstein said "we are now back to 1949. The clock has stopped at a point where time is of the essence."

"I think it is most important for New York and Inco del to have some definite action now for these reasons:

"First, the Federal government may move in the Delaware River Basin at any moment and take away the our four-state project for development of the basin in the best possible manner for all states concerned.

"Second, water, our life-line is scarce in New York City. New York City cannot live without it."

Irving V. A. Huie, president of the Board of Water Supply for New York City, advised the conference that "New York City needs POCOCO MANOR—Annual conference of the Interstate Commission on Delaware River Basin got under way here yesterday with a blast at Pennsylvania for delay on a four-state pact for development of the basin. water badly, and needs it now."

He warned that New York City will go before the U. S. Supreme Court to get an allowance of water over the 1911 Court edict which gave the city 440 million gallons a day. He recalled the city had asked for 600 million gallons a day and that a petition is now about complete to ask the high court for that amount.

There was no one present representing Gov. Fine's committee, but Attorney MacIntosh said he had talked with Mr. Greenfield recently and had been advised a statement will be made in a week or ten days. He indicated three groups of outstanding engineers will be named by the committee to study Inco del's proposal. However, there has been no legislation appropriation made for committee work up to this time.

The two-day meeting was opened this morning by Francis A. Pitkin, Inco del Chairman and executive director of the Pennsylvania State Planning Board, at the Pocoyo Manor in. Nearly 200 experts in the field of water conservation and development, including members of Inco del representing Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware, were in attendance.

Following a brief message of welcome delivered by Pennsylvania State Senator Montgomery F.

Crowe, representing Carbon, Monroe, Pike and Wayne Counties, the conferees heard a warning by Charles R. Erdman, Jr., commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development, that the states in the Delaware River Basin face the possibility of Federal control over the Delaware unless they take steps soon to solve the Delaware water supply problem among themselves.

Mr. Erdman said that the states have shown a willingness to work out a solution by establishing Inco del, which has proposed a vast program for development and con-

Allies Make Slight Gains In Korea

U. S. Eighth Army Hq'ts, Korea, Tuesday (AP)—Fresh Chinese defenders stiff-armed Allied tanks and infantry probing around battered Kumsong yesterday and launched furious attacks of their own near the central Korean road center.

Elsewhere in Korea, U. N. forces forged gains of less than one mile on the eastern and western fronts.

Four Allied tanks prowled into the rubbled no-man's-land city of Kumsong again yesterday and ran into heavy Red mortar fire. They turned back toward the Allied lines.

At least one new division of Chinese fighters had been moved into the Kumsong area for a stiffening defense.

Southeast of Kumsong, the Communists hurled three attacks at U. N. position in fierce day-long fighting.

The old Red supply base at Kumsong, 30 miles north of Parallel 38, has been the focal point of the Korean fighting since cease-fire delegates at Panmunjom disagreed last week on the "line of contact"—the shooting line—in that area.

An Allied briefing officer told AP Correspondent Milo Farneti at least one fresh Chinese division was believed to have shifted westward from eastern Korea to bolster Kumsong.

"They are trying to find us and we are trying to find them," the officer said.

The air war slackened Monday after eight fiery days. Eighty to 90 Russian-made MIG jets appeared over northwest Korea but avoided engaging American jet fighters.

As a result, Allied fighter-bombers went on a road and rail smashing spree. They cut Communist communication networks in 23 places, to stem increasing Red supply movements, largely at night.

Two American jets were shot down by intense Red ground fire in other actions yesterday, the Air Force announced. It said there was no chance the pilots survived.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U. S. Army chief of staff, returned to Tokyo with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Far East commander, after a frontline tour.

He told newsmen Allied forces "will have to stay in Korea for some time, if a cease-fire is arranged."

Collins said the South Korean Army "needs our help" for some time to come. It would not be "practical," he added, to make a complete withdrawal immediately after an armistice, should one be arranged. Collins would not comment on the prospects for an armistice, declaring that was for others to determine.

The North Korean Army communiqué, broadcast from Pyongyang, claimed a South Korean commando raid was smashed Sunday near Haeju, which is 80 miles northwest of Seoul.

She gave an explosive finish to an annulment petition hearing. The action ended almost before it got started, with District Judge Ewing Boyd setting a new date of December 10 to hear Gloria's petition asking an annulment on the grounds she was too intoxicated to remember the marriage.

She soaked Sheppard on her way from the 55th District court room. "Don't you think you've done enough of your darned yapping all over this town," she cried.

Boyd didn't see the incident; his view was blocked by four reporters who shared the wetting.

Posponement of the hearing came after Attorney Robert L. Sonfield asked that Dallas District Judge Robert H. Hall be heard.

Sonfield had filed a "friend of the court petition" asking the annulment be denied on the grounds it mocked the integrity of the Texas courts and of Texas judges, particularly Judge Hall. Hall remarried the couple in Dallas June 2. The Kings were divorced in 1950.

There were decorations everywhere, from modern and ancient government and office buildings to private homes. Street cars, buses, traffic-jammed automobiles and even ships in the harbor were a riot of color.

Leighton woman On Probation

Scranton, (AP) — Mrs. Edith Frank, of Leighton, Carbon county, was placed on probation for two years in Federal court yesterday by Judge Albert L. Watson after she pleaded guilty to four counts of an indictment charging she sent obscene letters through the mails.

She was represented by Martin J. Philip, Leighton. Assistant U. S. Attorney Joseph P. Brennan said the letters, approximately 160 in number, were sent through the mails between December 1947, and December 1950.

Queen Elizabeth Only Ship Unloaded As Back-To-Work Order Flops In New York

New York, (AP)—A much-heralded back to work move on New York's crippled waterfront flopped yesterday, except for one pier where wildcat picket lines were breached.

Police held back angry, shouting pickets as 100 non-strikers swept in to unload the huge liner Queen Elizabeth. A few strikers were injured, apparently not seriously.

Elsewhere, pickets held sway on the miles of idle docks. Most military piers were working, however.

As the back to work balloon collapsed, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey sent his state mediators onto the scene, where local and federal peacemakers have failed.

The Governor called the two-week-old wildcat strike "intolerable."

In Albany, Dewey said: "For more than two weeks, the port of New York has been paralyzed by a labor dispute. Valuable cargo, including material needed by our troops overseas, is piling up on the docks."

More than 120 ships were strike-bound here and in Boston, where rebel longshoremen quit the piers in sympathy with the New York wildcaters.

The city's Commerce and Industry association estimates $375,000,000 worth of goods are piled up.

From 25,000 to 30,000 rebel strikers are in revolt against Joseph P. Ryan, president of the AFL International Longshoremen's association, who has fought the strike from the outset. He recently signed a wage contract, which he said was approved by a majority of the 65,000 east coast stevedores from Maine to Virginia.

The new contract raised wages 10 cents an hour to $2.10. The rebels want a 25 cent raise and other improvements.

Dewey's seven-man state mediation board faced a hurdle too steep, even for Washington's top conciliators. The federal peacemakers quit last week, despairing of a truce.

President Truman, himself, was unable to get the men back with an appeal in the interests of national defense.

Instead of a plea, Strike Leader John J. (Gene) Sampson asked Mr. Truman to set up an emergency, impartial group to review strike issues—presumably under the Taft-Hartley law.

Over the weekend, Ryan promised his loyal non-strikers would breach picket lines, if need be, to go back to work. They managed to make good his threat at Pier 90, the Hudson River berth of the Queen Elizabeth.

Crewwomen said one was that of Guyette and the other that of Roy Richardson, 56, also of Port Huron, a wheelman. Dr. Max Schneider of Buffalo General hospital said, however, that they were "crisped beyond recognition."

The Penobscot, which unloaded a grain cargo Sunday, was leaving the harbor for Detroit and Duluth. The tug was inbound. The names of the tug and barge captains were not learned immediately.

The Penobscot is owned by the Nicholson Transit Co. of Detroit. The company reported that it carried a crew of 34.

The size of the tug and barge crews was not known.

Thousands of spectators jammed the waterfront area, creating traffic snarls that backed up into the downtown area. Police issued frantic pleas for the public to keep away from the shore and adjacent streets so that fire equipment and ambulances could pass freely.

Two hours later, spectators still were pouring in, attracted by the glow that could be seen for miles.

Witnesses said the top of the barge seemed to be blown loose by the explosion. Orange and yellow flames poured from the interior and spread across the oil slick that swept out from the stricken vessels. The superstructure of the Penobscot was ablaze.

City fire companies raced to the shore to assist harbor fire boats.

A partial list of the injured included: Lars Stronsland, 29, Lyndhurst, N. Y., treated for submersion and exposure, condition satisfactory.

Thomas Cree, Morristown, N. Y., first aid treatment, injuries unknown.

Thomas Forersen, 1135 80th St., Brooklyn, exposure, condition good.

Allentown Taxi Driver Murdered

Allentown, Pa. (AP) — "Send someone quick—this guy has a gun in my back," a 35-year-old taxi driver radioed to his dispatcher just before he was shot and killed by his passenger early yesterday.

The driver, Robert Claus, died en route to Sacred Heart hospital. Authorities at the hospital said four bullets were found in the dead man's body.

The shooting occurred about 2 a.m. Eugene Gallagher, an off duty policeman, who lives near the scene heard the shots and ran to the street to investigate. He found Claus sprawled on the front seat

According to Jesse Felker, Portland police chief, the five culprits involved in the skunk incident were not members of the Portland school, therefore were not given a day off as were students of the school. Their reward, according to Felker and the boys' parents, was nothing more than a rather painful reception at home.

This week the school incident and others in the vicinity had prompted the Portland town council and the school board to issue a proclamation which stated, in effect, that all children under the age 16 must be off the streets after dark, without exception. The notice placed responsibility for the children and their individual actions in the hands of their parents.

Stroudsburg Senior Class Names Play

Senior class of Stroudsburg High school has selected Sally Benson's costume comedy-melodrama "Meet Me In St. Louis" for production November 29-30.

The play, based on the author's short stories in the New Yorker and other national magazines, takes place in St. Louis at the turn of the century. It offers ample opportunity for an attractive setting and ornate costumes.

Members of the cast are: Sandra Lee, Rochelle Sasi, Elaine Smith, Patty Darling, Arthur Jolowsky, Dave Serfass, Joan Charlton, Rod Stanard, Emma Pleyer, Betty Clugston, Margie Shull, Mary Ann Shultz, Jack Hewitt, Myron Feinsilber, Bill Schmidt, Harry Mullins and Pete Kiefer.

Actual rehearsals for the play began last week with cast members given a reading rehearsal under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Smith, faculty director and Harriette Garaventi, student director who was selected by cast members from a list of four who submitted their names for the job.

With first rehearsals and blocking out of the way, the cast should be able to drop back about November 9 or 10, according to Mrs. Smith.

As is the case with every theatrical venture, amateur or professional, small or large, the backstage crews comprise one of the most important (and least glamorous) parts of the organization.

Behind the scenes at the Stroudsburg senior class play will be Bernadine Hasara, properties; Betsy Smith, costumes; Patte McCain, publicity chairman; Renee Johnson, make-up; Donna Sharrangh, Emily Eberts, prompters; Barry Albert, in charge of stage crew and personal supervisor of lighting; programs, Evelyn McDowell.

Tryouts for the play were "extremely successful," Mrs. Smith said, with a large number of students volunteering for those behind-the-scenes positions with little publicity.

Right now the efforts of the prop department and the majority of the crews is being turned toward the discovery of a cat to play "Lady Babbie"—a thoroughly indispensable member of the household.

Over $2,000 Contributed To Newfoundland Community Playground Construction Fund

Newfoundland—Over $2,000 have been contributed to the community playground fund, F. Carroll Krautter, president of the Newfoundland Rotary club, told members at a meeting of the group here last night.

Knowlton Board To Meet Today

Portland—A public meeting has been called by the Knowlton Board of Trade, representing Knowlton Township, New Jersey for 8 p. m. today to protest the removal of the present steel bridge at Delaware, N. J.

The meeting will be held in Columbia, N. J. school. Vincent Banos, board president, yesterday called on all citizens and representatives of veterans, civic and service organizations to attend and cooperate in the protest plan.

Wayne Dumont, Jr., member of the board, will be speaker. His talk will deal with plans of the Joint Toll Bridge Commission to remove the Delaware Bridge to make way for a project to building modern bridges near Portland, at Delaware Water Gap and at Milford, Pa.

Also involved in the discussion are the elaborate approaches proposed for these bridges, and the proposed new connecting highways.

Route 6 traffic, which uses the Delaware Bridge, would be routed up the river on the New Jersey side to Columbia where it could cross the river to the Easton road, or continue up the river in the New Jersey side to points north or cross the proposed new Water Gap bridge.

Property owners in the protest region feel that closing the existing bridge would be an inconvenience and reduce the property values on the road.

More than 726,000,000 pennies were minted in the United States in 1950. This was more than three times the total of nickels, dimes, quarters and half-dollars.

Speeches by the local Rotary club, the fund was raised by contributions of five local civic organizations, a number of individual donors and a $1,000 donation by the Huckleberry Hill Hunting and Fishing club, which operates a large game and fish preserve at Angels near here.

Local organizations participating were the Greene-Dreher Parent-Teachers association, Greene-Dreher Fair association, Greene-Dreher-Sterling joint board of education, Greene-Dreher Woman's club and the Rotary club. A partial list of individual donors was published in The Daily Record recently.

The fund will be used to grade and pave an area 80 feet by 100 feet on the school grounds and will provide an all-weather surface for a tennis court and two basketball courts, as well as space for other games.

Speaking on the activities of Rotary throughout the world, Governor Rahn stated that Rotary clubs in 83 countries are united in an endeavor to promote international understanding, good will and peace.

In addition to the activities of Rotary's 7,300 clubs in their own communities to promote this objective, the speaker explained that over a six-year period Rotary International is spending $1,500,000, principally to create better understanding among people of different nations.

Foremost of Rotary's international service activities are the Rotary Foundation Fellowships, which enable outstanding graduate students to study for one year in countries other than their own. Rahn said. Since this program was established in 1947, 284 fellowships have been awarded to students in 42 countries, with grants totaling more than $700,000, he added.

Prior to the regular meeting, the district governor met with club officers and committee chairmen to analyze club activities during the past year, review plans for this year and discuss club problems.

Work will have to stop during alterations to the plant interior. Walls will be moved and machinery moved to expand office space. The firm employs over 25 persons.

Amateur Photographers Urged To Outline Plans For Contest Sponsored By Daily Record

It starts Thursday, folks.

But there is no reason why you can't get busy right now and outline your plans for participation in The Daily Record's photographic contest for amateur shutterbugs.

Remember, too, that your efforts are apt to be rewarded with real cash prizes for the pictures you submit to The Daily Record for inclusion in the judging which comes at the end of the contest on Friday, November 30.

This newspaper wants to reiterate, too, that it costs you nothing to enter this contest. There is no participation fee or money to spend with this newspaper in any form.

All you need do is go out and take pictures with your own camera, make black and white prints of those snap shots which in your opinion are best to submit for prizes and accompany each picture with a coupon from The Daily Record, properly filled in with your name and address.

Pictures must be in one of three widths, four, six or eight inches, to be included for judging. The reason for this is that these sizes make up best for reproduction in the newspaper.

If you reside in Monroe or Pike counties, or in the Newfoundland or Slate Belt regions, and you are not employed by The Daily Record or by Radio Station WVPO, you or any members of your family may take part in this contest.

One hundred dollars in prizes will be awarded for pictures, which in the opinion of the judges will best "tell a story" and be the most sharp and clear for newspaper reproduction.

First prize is $25.00 in cash; second, $20.00; third, $15.00; and fourth, $7.50.

There will be two prizes of five dollars each, four at $2.50 each and five prizes of $1.00 each.

All photographs submitted for this contest become the property of The Daily Record and this newspaper reserves the right to reproduce them in the newspaper at any time.

In submitting photos for this contest, all participants agree that the decision of the judges will be final.

Now is the time to start. Be sure, when submitting your photographs, to include one coupon with each photo submitted. These coupons will be published each day from this time on in The Daily Record. Fill in each coupon with your name and address then mail or bring your photos to The Daily Record.

All mailed photos should be addressed to Photographic Contest Editor, The Daily Record, Stroudsburg, Penna.

Vote "Yes" For Voting Machines

Next Tuesday the qualified electors of Coolbaugh Township, the Middle District of Stroud Township, Boroughs of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg and Smithfield Township will vote on whether the County of Monroe shall buy them automatic voting machines for use in future elections.

Voting by machines is not new. Barret Township voters approved machines some 15 years ago. They were bought by the County of Monroe and have been used since that time. One company has been making the machines for more than 50 years and the original machines are still in use.

Voters who have voted by machine swear they will never cast a ballot by any other method. Politicians in areas were voting machines are in use agree.

Consider these advantages of the use of voting machines:

- Voting is easy and speedy.
- Secrecy is assured the voter.
- There are no spoiled ballots.
- The count is mechanically accurate.
- The results are ready as soon as the polls close.
- A permanent record is made as the vote is cast.
- Election expenses are reduced.

Have you ever marked your ballot with a check mark instead of an "X" within the printed square? If so, your vote was disqualified.

Have you ever made a mistake and erased it or written "mistake" along side it? If so, your vote did not count. In short, if you have ever made a mark other than the "X" WITHIN THE LIMITS of the printed square, that vote was not registered—except, of course, at the whim of election judges, who work until the small hours of the morning and humanly have a tendency to let some things slide.

WITH VOTING MACHINES, every vote counts. It is impossible to make a mistake. The machine will not permit mistakes. You can vote a Straight Party Ticket merely by pulling one lever. You can "Split" your ticket OR you can "write-in" votes.

And, every elector's vote has counted. Every person who wished to vote has cast an accurate ballot. The fatigues-shaken handwriting of election boards need no longer puzzle County Office vote checkers.

The voters in the five regions of Monroe County where the Voting Machine Question is listed on the November 6 ballot must assert themselves in such a way that there is no possible excuse for elected officials to avoid bringing voting machines to their districts.

They'll Still Make It

Congress has taken a healthy whack at press agents—government press agents.

In the appropriation bill for the economic agencies created as a result of the military emergency, Congress has cut out half the sum set up for "information and public relations" staffs.

Since the appropriation bill is nearly four months late—the Government's budget year began July 1—and all these agencies have been running press-agent staffs full tilt, the actual reduction will be more than 50 per cent.

To keep within money limits, such agencies as the Office of Price Stabilization, Wage Stabilization Board and others will have to get rid of four out of five employees on their publicity staffs.

Does anybody want to bet this will put any of these agencies out of business? Haw!

About 1,000,000 pounds of shad are caught each year for food, compared to 10 times this amount at the turn of the century.

In a short race the cheetah of Asia and Africa is the fastest four-footed animal in the world.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

One batter, according to Arthur Daly, who never had the slightest difficulty solving the delivery of the great Darryl Dean was Bill Terry, the famous Giant first-baseman. One afternoon Terry almost tore Dean's legs off with a wicked lacer through the box. The next time up he scorched Dean's ear with a sizzler that went rocketing into center field. His third hit almost tore off Dean's glove.

Pepper Martin sauntered over from third base and suggested to the outraged Dean, "Dizzy, I don't think you're playing this bird Terry deep enough."

On a "What's My Line" television broadcast, M. C. John Daly asked Rocky Graziano, "Are you as pugilist?" Rocky was lost in thought for a moment, then decided, "Nah—I'm just a prize-fighter."

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood — For a kid whose head for five years was a mattress in the bathtub of a Brooklyn tenement, Bill Williams has come a long way. And he can thank a bully for his start.

Bill is the green-eyed, blond actor husband of Barbara Hale. These days he's making love to Bob Hope, or getting shot by Roy Rogers in "Son of Paleface." This fall he starts a weekly television series on film as Kit Carson—a stint from which he expects to realize $20,000 a year.

Not bad for a guy whose beginning was about as humble as they come in Hollywood. At five years of age he was getting up at 4 o'clock every morning to deliver newspapers. Orphaned at eight, he moved in with tenement neighbors, whose bathtub was his bed. A few years later he worked part time in a corset factory. Another of his jobs was with a sidewalk repair crew.

Saturday afternoons he went to a neighborhood plunge to swim. A husky kid used to shove him around and tell him where to swim. This so infuriated Bill that, to show the guy, he worked up to captain of the team. "Then I told him where to swim," Bill remembers with satisfaction.

He began winning titles — he was junior national swimming champion in '33 — and giving weekend exhibitions. A spectator offered him $60 a week to join an adagio dancing act. There were two other youths and a girl. Starting at 18, Bill performed with the group for 10 years in vaudeville, night clubs, fairs, and circuses. A European visit in '39 included a royal command performance in London.

Bill had every one of his fingers broken in adagio mishaps before a theater executive got him into pictures. Most of his films have been westerns; frequently he is the heavy.

He met Barbara when both were in the cast of "West of the Pecos." Married in '40 they have a 4-year-old daughter and 7-month-old son.

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

Eisenhower — The campaign to make General Eisenhower a presidential nominee for one of the two major political parties is now in full blast. Almost simultaneously, the "New York Herald Tribune" named him as its candidate, "Collier's" published an article by Leonard V. Funder announcing that Eisenhower would accept a nomination by either party, and a news story stated that a headquarters for him would be established at Topeka, Kansas.

Even General Eisenhower's most ardent supporters have to recognize that politically this is not good enough, for no direct word has come from General Eisenhower. In fact, his headquarters stated:

"This is a military headquarters and we cannot be expected to comment on the views of an editorial in a purely political matter. There is no change contemplated in General Eisenhower's military status, about which this headquarters has been informed."

Admittedly, the position of General Eisenhower is difficult and embarrassing. As supreme commander of NATO, he cannot become involved in the internal politics of his own country. While serving in uniform under President Truman, he cannot oppose him politically. All this, General Eisenhower was told by friendly persons before he went to Europe. He was told that such a complex situation was inevitable and that he ought to make his choice in advance of the campaign for his nomination. Others counseled him that his position in Europe would improve his political stature.

Until General Eisenhower himself publicly proclaims himself a Republican, which he has never done and that he seeks the nomination and would accept it, the politicians who control State delegations to the convention will avoid, as far as possible, commitments which may prove embarrassing to them at the convention.

General Eisenhower, furthermore, is being presented in a false light by those who are publicly supporting him. The "New York Herald Tribune" was one of the principal advocates of Wendell Willkie, which is likely to frighten middle-western Republicans.

Mr. Funder has no status in the Republican party. His claim to fame is that in 1918, General Eisenhower wrote to him stating that "it is my conviction that the necessary and wise subordination of the military to civil power will be best sustained, and our people will have greater confidence that it is so sustained, when lifelong professional soldiers in the absence of some obvious and over-riding reason, abstain from seeking high political office."

Nowhere in his article does Mr. Funder publish a statement prepared by or signed by General Eisenhower acknowledging that he is a candidate and will accept if chosen. All that appears is Mr. Funder's political judgment. But there is no record to indicate that Mr. Funder's political judgment is politically important.

The real danger for the Eisenhower candidacy is that his friends are placing him in the awkward position of being Tom Dewey's candidate supported by the internationalist crowd in the East. To professional politicians this means a split party for the following reasons:

1. It is based not on a desire to support Eisenhower but to use him to block Taft and to bring Dewey in as a compromise.
2. He is being used as a political refuge by a discredited crowd who have kept Republicans at loggerheads and defeated since 1940 when they projected Wendell Willkie. This same group is regarded as responsible for the agreement between Roosevelt and Dewey to limit the debate in 1944;

3. It is perilous to say, as Eisenhower's friends do, that if the Republicans do not nominate him, he would accept a Democratic nomination. This is an admission that he is not a Republican but a Maverick who will accept any brand. Further, it implies that he is above party and therefore will not function as a Republican if elected.

All of this adds up to three points:

1. General Eisenhower must declare himself a Republican;
 2. He must declare himself a candidate who will accept the nomination come what may. No man can lead a party who in his mind or occupation is greater than his party;
 3. He must state his platform—his domestic and foreign platform—before the convention, as no party can afford this year to buy a pig in a poke.
- A political party in the United States is a State organization which selects delegates to a national convention. To many leaders, the State and Congressional elections are of equal importance to the presidential election. They will not risk the former for an uncertainty in the latter if they can help it. That is why the Eisenhower candidacy evokes little enthusiasm among those who will select the delegates to Chicago.

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington — Congressional appropriations for United States aid to 50 foreign countries between 1945 and 1952, inclusive, according to the State Department's own figures, total $35,253,504.000.

In view of the new 11 per cent income tax increase, representative Richard B. Wigglesworth, Republican of Massachusetts, thought the total loan figures ought to be reduced to a level understandable by each and every one of us taxpayers. He has taken the trouble to do so, discovering that in eight years a family of five in the U. S. has handed over $1,150 to the government for transfer to foreign lands. This figures out at $230 each for every man, woman and child in America.

Averaged on the basis of population figures, U. S. taxpayers have paid out $115 to every living person in Europe; $10.25 to every man, woman and child in the Near East and Africa; $8.25 per capita in Asia and the Pacific; and $4.61 to every living soul in Latin America.

On the same population average basis, every resident of Great Britain, during the eight years, received a total of $135 in American aid cash. Total population of the United Kingdom is 50,800,000.

The Greeks got $187 each; the Austrians $132 each; Icelanders $152; Formosans, $209 each. We didn't neglect anyone in the 50 countries, although residents of Nepal were aided only to the extent of an average of one cent each. Nepal has a population of 7,000,000.

The Indian government, which is unable to distinguish a Chinese Communist from a Chinese Nationalist, spent $104,213,000 of our money in eight years. This is 29 cents per Indian.

France got $105 in American money for each of the $42,700,000 Frenchmen, and each one of the 47,700,000 Germans in the Federal Republic got $74. The Yugoslavians picked up an average of $26 each after they started playing the role anti-Muscovites.

In Latin America Chile topped the per capita list with $19.16 per Chilean. Mexicans were next with $8.39 each.

Since 1945 we U. S. taxpayers have handed over cash to governments representing a total of 2,274,503,000 people in the world. As a result of this largesse, some are our friends. The most enthusiastic from reports brought back by American observers, are the Yugoslavians, who will stop Americans on the street to shake hands. The reason might be that they played patty cake with the Russians just long enough to get good and scared of the Kremlin. There are other lands where our generosity breeds contempt.

In Egypt, for instance, we passed out an average of 93 cents apiece in foreign aid for each Egyptian, but now they class us with the British in tossing anti-American insults around the sand dunes. The Iraqis couldn't have been more insulting in their anti-American demonstrations during the oil crisis, although we have handed over $289 for each resident of that land, for a total of $17,000,000.

Of the $35,253,504,000 total we've handed out in loans and grants, $1,050,000,000 has been repaid on principal and $874,000,000 has been collected in the form of reverse-grants and returns on grants. But don't let this fool you. All the while these 59 foreign countries have been building up a $9,000,000,000 kitty of so-called counterpart funds for their own use. These funds are in the form of the domestic currency of each country involved. They were made possible by U. S. loans and grants in the first place, and actually are nothing more than additional reservoirs

Walter Winchell on Broadway

Winchell

The Letter of the Year (The following from the New York Editor of Pittsburgh Courier, leading Negro newspaper):

"Dear Walter: Reading you daily for years and knowing how you have never failed to go out of your way to put in a merited good word for colored Americans or to denounce racial bigotry, I have resented from its inception the criticisms of you in connection with the alleged discrimination against Josephine Baker at the Stork Club. One would think that you were the owner of that establishment and had personally ordered that the actress be insulted.

"Whether or not she was the victim of racial discrimination seems to be obscure, since how long a person has to wait for service in a public place depends upon the hour when they seek service and how many other patrons are seeking it at the same time. While naturally holding no brief for the Stork Club, it would seem to me that the responsible person directing the picketing of the place would first clarify the situation as suggested before assuming the worst and acting upon it. Some of the Negroes' champions are much too quick on the trigger. We all loathe prejudice and discrimination but we ought to be sure before we act.

"Anybody who has closely followed Josephine Baker's activities outside the theater since her re-discovery of the American fleshpots will want to examine closely any complaints from her about discrimination. Since last Winter when she became the first colored performer to play at the swank Copa City in Miami Beach, she has been successfully horn-wagging the colored brethren into accepting her as a group heroine and champion. From the time a well known Negro fellow-traveling journalist journeyed to Mexico City to brief her and she entered the country with a big ballyhoo, she went through all of the expected routine — constant statements denouncing bias, dramatic appearance at the Trenton Six trial, championing the late and unlamented Willie Magee. Although warned against efforts of fellow-travelers and crypto-Communists to use her, she only repudiated them once, and then perhaps inadvertently, when she protested that she had been fleeced by the Reds on Magee's funeral expenses.

One of the Pittsburgh Courier's best reporters, Ernie Durham, got her statement in a Detroit interview which she hastily repudiated the next week, perhaps when the Cochrane case got to her.

"Last Summer Miss Baker refused to appear at the annual conference of the National Association of Colored People in Atlanta, Georgia, because she could not get hotel accommodations, knowing full well the racial segregation laws of that state. However, the previous December she did not refuse to appear in Havana, Cuba, when barred from the Hotel Nacional. William Portoondo, the Pittsburgh Courier's Havana correspondent, reported in its December 30, 1950, issue how upon arrival with her husband and a flock of reporters at the hotel, the clerk told her, 'Sorry, but there is no room empty.' She said, 'Well, it seems like we'll have to find another place.'

"Portoondo wrote: 'Cuban newspapermen (all white) staged a warm protest over what they considered the "unpro-slavery policy" of the National Hotel. But La Baker made no protest and did no picketing.

"When my good friend Willard Townsend, president of the United Transport Service Employees' Union, attended a soiree in her Chicago suite, he told the readers of his Chicago Defender column how astonished he was to find the place packed with notorious Reds and pinks, some of them high in the NAACP and the Urban League.

"The same element dominated the financially successful Josephine Baker Day in Harlem May 20th. The program for the affair contained 28% of advertising, eight coming from such "patriotic" organizations as District 65 Distributive Processing and Office Workers' Union, the 31 evicted tenants of Stuyvesant Town, the International Workers' Order, the Committee for the Negro in the Arts, the American Peoples' Congress and Exposition for Peace (sponsored by Howard Fast, Ben Gold, Dashiell Hammett, Paul Robeson, Abraham Flexner, Harry Bridges and such worthies), the National Committee for the Defense of Doctor W. E. B. Du Bois and his Associates, Defense Committee for William L. Patterson, Harlem Civil Rights Congress, and such.

"I think that same statement can be applied to business in general, and to the "state of the nation."

Monroe County Trend Toward Smaller Farms

Editor's note — This is the first of three articles to be published by The Daily Record dealing with the 1950 Agriculture census.

Monroe County took a look at itself yesterday in the mirror of the 1950 agriculture census.

The old face had a significant new look.

The major trend is away from farming at a time when food prices are the highest in national history.

An eye-opening drop of about 27 per cent in the number of farms was shown over a five year period.

The 1945 number was 1,219 farms of all types—commercial, part-time, residential. In 1950 the figure had shrunk to 884.

Although the U. S. Department of Commerce said the figures for the 1950 agriculture census were "preliminary and subject to revision," they are accurate enough to paint a new portrait of the Monroe area.

Some of the notable features in the new picture:

Farms are a lot fewer and a little bigger.

They are worth about twice what they were five years ago.

Farmers get about twice as much money for farm produce now as they did in 1945.

The kinds of farms which have been one or more automobiles, electricity, washing machines, and were owned by the operators.

The little black columns of print and numbers reflect changes peculiar to the county and changes common in agriculture all over the U. S.

The big bite put on Mrs. America's pocketbook since the end of World War Two is indicated by the value of farm produce in Monroe county.

In 1944 farm products sold here for a total $1,956,249. By 1949, with many fewer farms, sales were $2,086,300.

The jump in land values shows that the inflationary spiral is no myth—if anyone thought it was.

In 1945, the average farm, with buildings, was worth $6,343. Last year it was worth $11,920—nearly double. Or, by acre, the average value was $66.58, jumped to $120.66.

The greatest number of changes stem from the single fact—that there are fewer farms.

Yet the census also revealed recently that the county population has risen by about 4,000 persons.

The two facts add up to a real-estate story:

One — Former farm lands are being converted to residential developments.

Two — Farms are being taken passed out of the picture since 1945 are both little ten-acre plots and big 1,000-acre tracts.

The remaining farms nearly all over as homes by migrating area residents, or as part-time homes of persons from New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey metropolitan sections.

Some of the details revealed by the preliminary report: (with figures approximate):

About 22.8 per cent of the county's total area of about 390,000 acres is now farm land—a change from 116,000 acres in 1945 to 89,000 last year.

The average-size farm in 1945, was 95 acres. Now it is 101.

Of today's farm lands, operators own about 80,000 acres, rent an additional 10,000 from other people, and rent out for other purposes about 1,000 acres.

Farmers in 1944 harvested about 40,000 acres of croplands, as opposed to a puny 24,000 in 1949.

These cropland acreages dropped from 1944 to 1949 in the following numbers: 1-9 acres, 391 in 1944 to 214 in 1949; 10-19 acres, 175 to 119; 20-29 acres, 144 to 98; 30-49 acres, 210 to 138; 50-99 acres, 198 to 125; 100-199 acres, 12 to 26; 200 acres and over, 13 to 10.

There was no irrigation in 1944. In 1949, two farms reported a total of six acres irrigated by sprinklers.

Number of farms with croplands used only for pasture remained the same over the five-year period—about 500. The acreage, however, rose slightly from 7,000 in 1944 to 8,000 in 1949.

Some 500 farms reported having 11,000 acres lying fallow in 1944 and 1949.

Woodland pasturage of 2,841 acres was reported by 154 farms in 1944, and of 2,673 by 105 farms in 1949. Unpastured woodland of about 45,000 acres was reported by 1,000 farms in 1944, but in 1949 there was a drop to 33,000 acres, on 600 farms.

Pastures neither cropland nor woodland—(well-suited to building)—dropped from 8,000 acres on 500 farms to 3,000 acres on 200 farms.

On the other hand, there has been a rise in the amount of land going to house lots, roads, waste land—from 4,000 acres on 1,200 farms in 1944, to 7,000 acres on only 800 farms in 1949.

Irrigation, in the fertile territory of the Poconos and the Delaware River basin, still remains a negligible item in the county farming picture.

There was no irrigation in 1944. In 1949, two farms reported a total of six acres irrigated by sprinklers.

WATCHING A YOUNG STROUDSBURG artist mark up the Penn-Stroud hotel windows is Police Chief James McConnell. He applauded her efforts and walked on, for Peggy Berger, 12, of 1062 Dreher Ave., is no light-minded prankster. Serious about her decorating efforts, the girl spent five hours coloring the restaurant window partly visible at right. Chalk outlines come first, then the colors. Also happy with the results was the hotel manager, who invited Peggy to use her talents on the rest of his hotel windows. (Daily Record photo)

Store-Window Paintings To Be Judged Today

Best of the store-window Halloween paintings in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg will be selected by a board of judges which will make the rounds at 7 p.m. today.

All the paintings were done by students at Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High schools and East Stroudsburg Junior High school.

The artistic preparations were for the Halloween celebration sponsored by merchants of both communities, the chamber of commerce, radio station WVPO and The Daily Record.

Awards will be made at the end of the Halloween parade tomorrow night. There will be a $15 first prize for the combined high schools and a $15 award to students of the East Stroudsburg Junior High school. Those placing second will receive $5 in both classes.

Fish Arrested On Charges Of Possessing Illegal Game

A cache of more than 20 packages of illegal game was recovered by a game warden yesterday from the home of Paul Fish, 27, of 10 Rose St., East Stroudsburg.

Warden Paul Failor, Mount Pocono, said most of the cache consisted of deer meat—some 200 pounds of it—but there were also packages of trout, rabbit and other game.

Taken before Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bonser, Fish pleaded guilty of possessing parts of two deer in closed season, and paid a $206 fine.

Failor said other charges may be filed against Fish in connection with the case.

The game warden said Fish first claimed he killed the two deer with bow and arrow, on his archery permit. After examination of the meat by Failor, however, Fish confessed he shot both deer in the new-fangled manner—with a rifle.

The first—a four-point buck—was shot October 19. The second—a six-point buck—was killed Saturday. The hides and heads are in Failor's custody.

St. Louis Man Who Collapsed On Sidewalk Reported "Pretty Good" By General Hospital

Edward Saul, 48, of 4872 Oakland Ave., St. Louis, Mo., was admitted to General Hospital yesterday after he had collapsed on the sidewalk in front of the Wyckoff department store in downtown Stroudsburg.

Employees of the store gave emergency treatment to Saul before arrival of an ambulance.

Howard Ailes, Mount Pocono, an employee of the Wyckoff firm, was the first person in the store to lend assistance. Ailes asked the telephone operator in the store to call an ambulance and then, aided by other men outside the building, moved Saul back into the doorway.

Ailes' attention was drawn to a package which the man had been carrying. A stamp on the parcel stated that he (Saul) was a diabetic and listed emergency measures to be used in case of shock.

Following the directions, Ailes called back to fellow employees Vonda Pollett and Blanche Mackey who brought sugar and water and orange juice which Ailes administered.

An army blanket appeared from nowhere and was used to wrap the man's body. Then, with assistance from Ailes and other men, Saul was able to walk inside the building into the shoe shop.

There he waited until the ambulance arrived.

At the hospital, authorities were presented with an unusual problem—the medication recommended for the patient was of a nearly obsolete type—the hospital had not stocked it for almost ten years.

A hurried call to Allentown brought the medicine yesterday shortly after noon.

Saul's condition was reported as "pretty good" by the hospital last night.

Monroe County Auto Club Receives Letter Of Praise

Plans have been completed for a meeting of operators of AAA service stations in the county and Board of Governors of the Monroe County Automobile club. It will be held at the Penn-Stroud hotel Monday, November 12, at 8 p.m. for the purpose of discussing various problems.

Announcement was made at the meeting of the governors in the AAA office last night that James L. Reardon, head of the service given AAA members. He will also show motion pictures of the Indianapolis Speedway motor competition. Buffet luncheon will follow the meeting.

Safety patrols are being formed for the Clearview and Analomink public schools in Stroud township under the sponsorship of the local motor club. Belts and badges will be presented to the members of the patrols in a few days by representatives of the Monroe county club.

A letter of commendation was read from the Pennsylvania Motor Federation commending the Monroe County club for its co-operation in connection with the recent Glidden tour which stopped over in Stroudsburg and climaxed with the banquet at Sky-top Lodge. The letter stated the publicity given the tour in The Daily Record exceeded that of any other section in the state.

The club again took up the matter of the traffic arrangement whereby motor traffic is to move south off Main St., on red at Seventh and Main Sts., Stroudsburg. The club requests that a green arrow be painted on the traffic signal at the intersection. Many motorists do not understand the meaning of the sign "turn right on red," waiting until the traffic changes to red before passing through thus increasing congestion. It was stated, Borough council will be requested to have the arrow placed.

Liquor Control Board Blasted

Decision of Pennsylvania Liquor Board to take a profit on increases in Federal excise taxes on alcoholic beverages which become effective November 1 has been attacked as profiteering and as a definite encouragement to large-scale bootlegging and all its attendant evils.

The blast was filed with Senator Frederick T. Gelder, chairman of PLCB Pennsylvania Alcoholic Beverage Study, Inc.

The tax increase on spirits are from $9 to $10.50 per proof gallon on which the PLCB proposes to exact a profit.

W. W. Keen Butcher, president of PABS, said that "in effect, Pennsylvania proposes to make an unwarranted and unconscionable profit out of a national emergency, a policy to which the term profiteering may well be applied."

He said that since liquor can be made for 20 cents a fifth—exorbitant liquor prices in Pennsylvania were bringing about a revival of large-scale bootlegging.

Capacity Crowd At School Party

The Halloween party at the Smithfield Consolidated school, sponsored by the eighth grade on Friday night, filled the school auditorium to capacity. Sponsored by the eighth grade, the proceeds from the party will be used for graduation exercises for the class, of which Paul Bartholomew is advisor.

Following the grand march of all the grades with prizes for the funniest, prettiest and most original costumes in each grade, there were games, and refreshments and homemade cakes served by the eighth grade and their mothers.

A new feature this year was the "House of Horrors", through which the eighth grade conducted tours.

Judges for the costumes were Mrs. Edward Welch, Mrs. Arch Moyer, and Principal Allen Stenier. The prize winners are listed by grades with the funniest first, the prettiest, second, and the most original listed last:

First grade: Ann Stettler, Dana V. tcraft, Carol Plattenburg; second grade: Allen Bryogle, Helen Place and Carl Nelson; third grade: Harold Transue, Bonnie Lou Strunk and Neldon Overfield; fourth grade: Warren Brink, Corinne Nelson and Howard Canfield.

Star, Heart Club Party At Neipert Home

A Halloween party was held Thursday night at the home of Shirley Neipert by the members of the Star and Heart club with the girls all in costume.

The decorations were also in the traditional Halloween colors with a large chocolate cake flanked by two jack-o-lanterns. There were candy basket favors for each girl.

The Star and Heart club was organized by the group to make novelties, and they proved their skill through the miniature paper hats, place mats, place cards and a witch game which they made for their own party.

Refreshments were served, and prizes awarded for several of the games.

Those present were: Lois Lambert, Carol LaBar, Lillian and Lorraine Miller, Lois Krammer and the hostess, Shirley Neipert. Gail Kupciawski is also a member of the club but was unable to be present.

Barn Party Held By Polk FHA

Kresgeville—A crisp October air and moonlight found approximately thirty F.H.A. girls dressed in various Halloween costumes, gathered for an evening of fun at the barn of Eloise Eckley of Kresgeville. The barn was appropriately decorated for the occasion. Skeletons and glaring pumpkin faces peered from all corners.

The highlight was the grand march, and with such a variety of costumes, it was hard to select the winners. Prizes were awarded to Lois Rudelitch for the prettiest costume, and Patricia Albright for the ugliest. Miss Albright was dressed as a witch, and the face she had was enough to scare anyone. She was an exact copy of the witch we have all seen riding her broom on Halloween. The surprise of the evening was the funniest couple. This was Mrs. Marion Mackes, who was dressed as a "hoo", and her "wife", Miss Marjane Everitt.

Refreshments were served and games and square dancing climaxed a most enjoyable evening.

Penny Supper At Gap

Delaware Water Gap—The women of the Methodist church at Delaware Water Gap will serve a penny supper on Thursday night, November 1, beginning at 5:30. Teen-Agers Discussing Youth Problems

The teenagers of the Presbyterian church of East Stroudsburg enjoyed a program under the leadership of Bill Dimmick and Gary Peckman, recently.

They demonstrated why the Boston Red Sox lost the World Series baseball championship in 1919. With facts they had in their possession, they proved the Red Sox had the most skilled players. They concluded with the thought that the Boston team failed because of personality flaws in the lives of some of the members of the team.

Later, the group had a good time measuring their own personalities with a prescribed chart and questions.

Following the conclusion of the discussion, five of the teenagers drove to the Shawnee Presbyterian church where the youth of that church, plus those of Middle Smithfield and Delaware Water Gap were holding a joint session. Those in the party included Bill Dimmick, Gary Peckman, Barbara Harvey, Judy Shay and Adrian Tewksberry.

Miss Clare Fisher will moderate the session for next Sunday dealing with Youth's Number One Problem, "The Search For Security."

Communion Breakfast For Society

The eighth annual Communion breakfast of the Altar and Rosary society of Saint Matthew's Catholic church was held Sunday morning at the Penn-Stroud hotel following the 8:30 mass at which the group received Holy Communion with Rev. H. G. Durkin as celebrant.

The opening prayer at the breakfast was given by the Rev. H. G. Durkin. Mrs. George Rung, president of the society, extended the welcome to the members and their guests and presented the members of the executive board. Mrs. Rung also introduced Miss Harriet Wolslayer, president of the Blessed Virgin Society. The breakfast chairman, Mrs. James Coleman, then thanked her committee and all those who had assisted in making the breakfast a success.

Mrs. Paul Kennedy, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Rev. M. A. Gillogly, who spoke on "The Fall and the Redemption," two great events which revolved around women. He told the story of the changing of water into wine at the marriage feast of Gana to illustrate the power of Mary's intercession. He declared that Mary interceded for the world when she appeared to three children in Fatima and instructed them to tell the world that only prayer, penance, and sacrifice would bring peace.

Entertainment was provided by Mary Ann Reap of Honesdale, who gave two vocal selections: "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother" and "Lassie O Mine." She was accompanied by Mrs. Jane Lenington. William McGarry of East Stroudsburg played two piano selections: "Minuet" by Paderewski and "Albionblatt" by Beethoven.

Rev. H. G. Durkin, adviser of the society, congratulated the committee which arranged the breakfast and the soloists for their excellent entertainment. Following the closing prayer which was given by Rev. R. C. Mulherin the group sang "Mother, Dear, O Pray for Me."

Remembrance cards with the picture of "The Holy Family" were distributed to all members. The speakers table was decorated with candelabra and yellow nuns.

Seated at the head table were: Rev. M. A. Gillogly, Rev. H. G. Durkin, Rev. R. C. Mulherin, Mrs. George Rung, president; Mrs. Theodore Viechnicki, vice president; Mrs. Arthur Blewitt, treasurer; Mrs. James Coleman, breakfast chairman; Mrs. Paul Kennedy, program chairman; Mrs. Charles Grace, music chairman; past presidents, Mrs. William Hannas, Mrs. Henry Hefele, and Mrs. A. From Polly Brief, catering to women 5 ft. 5 and under, comes peacock blue crepe, daintily feminine with its black and blue buttons the size of silver dollars. And two stunning dresses for the half-size figure are shown by Forever Young and Really Young respectively. The first is black crepe, almost sleeveless, with sleeve jacket. Simple lines, aimed at height and slenderness, are accented with trim in two tones of blue and nailhead. The other dress is purple at its most aristocratic. I loved the soft accordion pleated drape in front, and the purple and rhinestone buttons.

Equally chic... definitely Junior?... is ginger velvetton molded by Carole King with flared skirt, raglan sleeves and white bengaline trim. How delightfully young can you be? Also lovable is a smoke gray rayon alpaca with 3/4 sleeves and Peter Pan collar edged in pleated taffeta. The collar stands up for its rights too, in the very center back where it has two gun-metal buttons like those going down the front.

Look and try before you buy! No dress on the hanger is as lovely as it will be on you. You're so much smarter looking than you've guessed!

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

They're singing a new song in East Stroudsburg these days and the melody is catching on like wildfire. The score being written by the East Stroudsburg High school football team is one that has never been seen in the area where the purple and white colors fly just below the American flag. The new song unfolds one of those rags to riches stories that are usually found in fiction books and even then sound so fantastic that few of us would give the pattern a second thought.

However, the story being unfolded by the East Stroudsburg football team is absolutely true, after the Cavaliers had been starved for victory for the past six years. In the past the question making the rounds has been—Will we win a game this year? However, the modern 1951 query is—Will we win the Lehigh-Northampton League title? Yes, things certainly have changed in the N. Courtland St. area, where the present football log reads four victories and three setbacks, the first time an Eastburg team has had more victories than defeats since they started playing the game seriously in the local halls of knowledge.

In the past victories have been far and few between, with a win and a tie being the best record in previous years. In fact the Cavaliers went for more than 20 games without winning over a span of three seasons. It appeared as if the same kind of campaign was in the books this season when the Cavaliers opened hostilities by dropping the first two games. However, the charges of Coach Jack Kist braced at this point and blanked both Bangor and Lehigh, and the football fever hit its highest peak in history in the borough of East Stroudsburg.

The high pitch lasted less than a week as a favored East Stroudsburg grid machine that was favored to defeat Stroudsburg lost its seventh straight "Battle of the Boroughs," this time by a single point, 15-14. However, the 1951 purple and white clad team displayed its true colors by taking a vastly larger Wilson Borough club over the coals to the tune of 25-6. The Cavaliers brought the football campaign up to date last Saturday by rolling over Coplay. A run down on the schedule shows that the Kistmen have won three and lost one game against league competition and sport one victory against two unfavorable decisions against non-league opposition.

Regardless of what happens at Nazareth, Saturday, November 10, the Cavaliers will have their most successful campaign in history. However, a victory will insure East Stroudsburg High school of at least a tie for the Lehigh-Northampton League championship and could lead to an outright tie if Bangor should rise to the occasion and take the measure of Pen Argyl in their annual Thanksgiving Day struggle. At the present time Nazareth is pacing the loop with only a 13-13 tie with Bangor marring its record. However, a loss to East Stroudsburg would drop Nazareth behind both the Cavaliers and Pen Argyl. Then if Bangor should down Pen Argyl in the final game of the season for both clubs, East Stroudsburg would be alone atop the Lehigh-Northampton League standings.

It's remarkable how the football fortunes at the N. Courtland St. school have taken on the victory glow, after so many dismal seasons. Kist started his present club as a junior varsity unit and it has learned each and every lesson carefully, most of them the hard way, and this season it arrived as a good football team. Defeating Nazareth would ordinarily be an almost impossible task for any club in the Lehigh-Northampton league, but Bangor, suffering through one of its poorest seasons, proved that the present pace setters can be handled when the pupils of Coach Granville Evans battled the annual powerhouse to a 15-13 deadlock last Friday night.

In past years the mentioning of Wilson Borough and Nazareth sent shivers up and down the spines of all those interested in football in East Stroudsburg. However, the Cavaliers have proven that 1951 is the beginning of the "new era" in East Stroudsburg High football by crushing one of the biggest Wilson teams in the schools history. The followers of the Cavaliers believe this is the year to end Nazareth's domination and there will be a large delegation of Eastburg fans on hand to cheer for the Cavaliers at Nazareth, a week from next Saturday.

Local High School Elevens Escape Weekend Injuries

Stroudsburg Prepares For Slatington

Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High school football teams took a day off from the practice field yesterday, but both are scheduled to resume hard work today in preparation for coming games. The Mountaineers play host to Slatington at Gordon Giffels field Friday night, while the Cavaliers stack up against Nazareth in an important contest a week from Saturday.

Although the Stroudsburg eleven went down to a 20-0 loss at the hands of Catasauqua last Saturday, Coach Jerry Stulgaitis last night termed the game the best one played by his forces this year. As evidenced by the statistics, Stroudsburg did everything but outscore the Caty Rough Riders. The Mountaineers took the opening kickoff almost to the Catasauqua goal before being turned back by a 15-yard penalty. The maroon and white color bearers also advanced to the one yard stripe in the second quarter, only to be halted by the end of the first half.

Stulgaitis announced that no serious injuries were received in the Lehigh Valley league contest, although the usual amount of bumps and bruises that accompany any hard football game were present.

Doubtful
However, Don Garaventi, defensive halfback who was unable to play against Caty because of an injury which occurred in Thursday's practice session, may miss Friday's struggle with Slatington too. However, there is a possibility that Garaventi may see limited action in the final Giffels field struggle of the season.

Dick Campeotto and Karl Weinberger are still bothered with charley-horses which have been with them most of the season, but both are listed for plenty of action on Friday.

East Stroudsburg, with at least a tie for the Lehigh-Northampton league crown is reward for winning against Nazareth a week from Saturday, begins its long schedule of hard work for the game after school today.

Coach Jack Kist reported the condition of Captain Marlin "Ducky" Martz and end Jim Fritz slightly improved and it's hoped that both will be able to take part in a considerable amount of work prior to the biggest game of the season for the Cavaliers.

However, all those that took part in the 48-7 victory over Coplay last Saturday came through the struggle without injury and are reportedly anxious to get down to preparations for the final tussle of the season.

The Cavaliers are also reported to be in the best mental condition of the season and spirit is in an all-time high.

Princeton Keeps Rolling
New York, (AP)—Princeton's high-riding "Tigers" topped a list of 35 college football teams still able to boast unbeaten and untied records yesterday. Only nine big schools made the list.

Victory
The flashy Ivy League leaders ran their perfect record to 18 triumphs in a row over a three-season span when they knocked Cornell out of the unbeaten and untied class Saturday by a 35-13 count.

Other major powers and unsullied records include Tennessee, Michigan State, Georgia Tech, Illinois, Maryland, Stanford, Cincinnati and San Francisco.

Bucknell's Unbeaten Eleven Takes Part In Light Drill
Lewisburg, (AP)—Bucknell's unbeaten Bisons ran through a light workout yesterday for their clash on Saturday with Temple's once beaten Owls.

Coach Harry Lawrence said the squad is in pretty good condition, adding "our injuries in the Lafayette game were at a minimum."

Victims
The Bisons have romped over Gettysburg, Muhlenberg, Lehigh, Kent State, Buffalo and Lafayette on succeeding Saturdays to run to ten their string of victories. Four carried over from last season. Temple dropped its opener to Syracuse but then rebounded to thrash Brown, Rutgers, Albright, Delaware and a highly-rated Boston University eleven.

West Chester Back Third In Scoring

Philadelphia, (AP)—Burt Talmage of unbeaten Bucknell, is the new leader in the Pennsylvania collegiate football scoring derby.

The weekly Associated Press poll disclosed yesterday that Talmage's three touchdowns against Lafayette Saturday lifted the fleet halfback ahead of Scranton's captain Ed Romanowski. Talmage now has 72 points on 12 touchdowns. Romanowski is second with 69 points, including 14 he scored against St. Vincent Sunday as his team suffered its first defeat of the season.

Next In Line
Fred Prender of West Chester vaulted from an eighth place tie to third this week as a result of his five extra point binges against Millersville. Prender has 64 points on eight touchdowns and 16 conversions. Brad Myers of Bucknell comes next with 60 points on ten touchdowns.

New York, (AP)—Ernie Gene Smith, 20-year-old unbeaten Washington, D. C., featherweight, whipped Harry LaSane, Houston, Tex., veteran, on a unanimous ten-round decision last night in a benefit show for the late Georgia Flores, at St. Nicholas Arena. Smith weighed 125½, LaSane, 130.

Purse
The widow and child of Flores, who died September 2, after being knocked out by Roger Donoghue in a Madison Square Garden preliminary will receive at least $5,000 from the show. Some 1,500 paid to see the fight.

All proceeds except fighters' pay went to the fund. The arena rent was absorbed by the IBC which donated its profits and share of the TV receipts.

ESSTC Plays Host To Rams In Soccer Struggle Tomorrow

Soccer has taken the play away from football, at least until the weekend, at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, with the biggest game of the season on tap tomorrow at 3 p. m. against the colorful West Chester Rams. West Chester last year was named the "National Soccer Champion" and this season is apparently out to protect that mark, as the Rams have booted their way through such tough opposition as Lehigh, Temple, Haverford, Princeton and LaSalle.

East Stroudsburg will also present a perfect record of three straight wins without a setback, as the charges of Coach Howard DeNike play host to their most fierce rival. The Warriors have defeated Wilkes College, Trenton and Lafayette in that order.

Although the terrific rivalry between the two schools began in football and reaches its peak year for the grid battle, the soccer series has been waged on a much more even basis.

Both teams have three wins and one game resulted in a tie, in seven meetings on the soccer field.

ESSTC won the first three meetings, 2-1 in 1939; 3-2 in 1944, and 2-1 in 1946. The worm began to turn in 1947 when West Chester came up with a 2-1 edge. In 1948 the two clubs battled to a 1-1 stalemate and West Chester came back to win 2-1 in 1949 and 4-1 last season in an overtime struggle.

The Warriors will be out to break a losing streak against West Chester that hasn't found the DeNikemen winning since 1946, the year ESSTC produced an undefeated and untied soccer contingent.

Both clubs are expected to be in top physical and mental condition for tomorrow's game and one of the best battles in the series is expected to be held on the Normal Hill terrain, rain or shine.

Texas Tech May Produce First All-American Cager

Lubbock, Texas, (AP)—Paul Nolen is the fellow many folks think is going to be Texas Tech's first All-America basketball player.

Allie White, assistant football coach, discovered Nolen—all six feet ten inches of him—in the little town of Alvarado, Tex.

Basketball Coach Polk Robinson didn't appear over-enthusiastic when he first met Nolen.

"I asked him to dribble in and try a lay-up," says Robinson. "He dribbled fairly well, but instead of laying the ball up, he shoved it down into the basket. That's when I was sold."

"I told him that if he was ready to work harder than he had ever worked in his life, he would be an outstanding player."

Two hours a day—in season and out—Nolen toiled. As a freshman, he was awkward. During the next summer, besides working on his own Nolen did construction work. Handling large bags of cement helped strengthen him.

A brilliant sophomore season followed. The giant from Alvarado was all-Border Conference and was picked by the AAU as the best "young player" in its national tournament.

Play-Maker
Nolen is both a point-scoring and play-maker. His 538 points last season topped the Southwest, besides ranking him 16th in the nation. Teammates weren't forgotten, however. He was 13th in the nation in assists and seventh in rebounds.

Opponents unable to outstretch Nolen don't have much luck trying to rough him up. He weighs 225 pounds.

"Too many coaches give up on tall players because they look awkward," Robinson comments. "If the coaches are prepared to work long hours and the boy is, too, there's no reason why the tall player won't help them immensely."

Robinson admits that for the past two seasons he has been arranging the Tech schedule with an eye toward getting Nolen on the All-America.

Veteran Writer Likes Looks Of New Book

New York, (AP)—A large, heavy book, about an inch and a half thick, entitled "How to cover, write and edit sports" has been received at this desk, and it appears to be much the most ambitious thing of its kind that has come along.

This bureau has no way of knowing how many strange young men there are who wish to know how to cover, write and edit sports, but whatever the number, this is their meat. Lou Gelfand and Harry Heath, whose names appear on the jacket, have put in a tremendous amount of work and research on the project, and the Iowa State College press must have run up an awesome bill for slick paper.

Just looking at and hefting this book, one is struck with the thought that the writing of sports must have become a pretty complicated and "exacting" business since the first time you wrestled with a box score some 25 years back. Maybe it's a science now, or something.

Vague Answer
Always before when some eager-faced graduate asked this corner how to go about becoming a sports writer, the reply has been on the vague side, something about starting in as a reporter of minor weddings and working up gradually through vital statistics. Now we can say, with perhaps a trace of pride, that you've got to buy a book, son, a $5 book.

Inside this book, besides scores of illustrations showing how to chart football games, score fights, judge five-gaited saddle ponies and the like, there are a few hundred pages devoted to what the authors consider the outstanding efforts of many of the country's leading sports experts.

This should guarantee a lively sale within the trade, for no matter how long an inhabitant of the press boxes has seen his own byline in the sports section, he still likes to know that his more inspired efforts will be preserved between stiff covers. A book, properly handled, will keep well, and can be kept lying around where the casual visitor may thumb through it.

The fact is, we like to think that some of the writing exhibited in "How to cover, etc." is remarkably good.

Happy Reading
The journalism student will find some real happy reading, besides being instructed. To be entirely honest, though, there are a number of little things the book fails to take into account about sports writing.

For instance, we found nowhere any mention of the fact that all football press boxes in the east, where it gets cold, are open to the wintry breezes, whereas those in the sunny south, southwest and California are glassed-in and steam-heated. This has never been satisfactorily explained.

The book fails, too, to warn the incipient football expert that there are 144 steps leading to the press coop at Franklin Field in Philadelphia, and no elevator. There is no mention of the fact that a fight writer must hang out his opus of the evening with a redhot fan leaning over each shoulder and, in most cases, disagreeing violently with his judgments.

But those after all, are minor irritations, and it isn't a bad business if a man can make it through the World Series. Once, a few springs ago, John Carmichael, quiet and retiring sports editor of the Chicago Daily News, gazed reflectively at a round Florida moon through the palm trees and said:

"Any man who doesn't like this life is crazy."

Louis Further Delays Plans
New York, (AP)—Joe Louis decided not to announce any retirement plans yesterday, calling off a tentative press conference he had set up Friday night.

Scheduled to shove off for Seat 4 the Nov. 10 enroute to an exhibition tour of Japan, he preferred to hold off any positive decision until his return.

Actually "Rocky" Marciano retired Louis at Madison Square Garden Friday when he flattened him in the eighth round. With that defeat went all the bailing Bomber's hope of fighting up the comeback trail to win back the title he held so long.

Lions Honored At Special Affair

Tobyhanna — Forty-four charter members of the Tobyhanna Lion's club were presented with honorary certificates by District Governor Elton Hall at a combination dinner and dance Saturday night at McKeever's Tobyhanna Inn.

In his address, Hall complimented the club on its progress since organization began in April of this year. With the continued influx of people in the New Town area, Hall concluded, it might be possible to predict that the Tobyhanna club would be the largest in Northeastern Pennsylvania within the next five years. Hall was introduced by club president Edwin Bigger who told members of plans to give a special Christmas dinner for children of the community. The Saturday dinner-dance was arranged by Lions William Flahearty, John Call, Michael Vashlishan and P. D. Frankenfield.
